PASTOR MICHELLE'S NOTES

Friends, I have been immersed in the world of homiletics (preaching) this week (May 15-18). There is probably a baptismal pun in there, and it probably fits, if I'm honest. I have to say, however, that the Festival of Homiletics in Minneapolis has provided streams of the living water of soul refreshment to me. I attended this Festival several times years ago, but in the intervening years have managed to convince myself that I am too busy or too short on time to go. That was a mistake.

You may not know that the preaching world has its rock stars, but it does, and some of them have been here this week. I was able to hear the Most Reverend Michael Curry, the Archbishop of the Episcopal Church in the US, and the Rev Otis Moss III, and Bishop Yvette Flunder and the Rev. Matt Skinner and the Rev. Shannon Kershner and Dr. MaryAnn McKibben Dana, the Rev Jonathan Merrit, and Dr. Anna Carter Florence. I swam in the wisdom of these folks as they preached and lectured, and finally, I tried to keep my breath as Dr. Amy-Jill Levine whizzed through an amazing admonition to preachers to quit beating up on Judaism.

Hearing different voices from a range of traditions stirs up the preacher's spirit. We too often get stuck in our own experience and the experience of our own congregations that we stop listening outside that circle. Listening to the expert wordsmithing and crafting of phrases to communicate the gospel convinces everyone who attends (or most of us, anyway) that we could and should preach better than we do—and we all go home resolved to try, each taking our own spark of inspiration to ignite our congregations.

Talking about faith, and Jesus, and God is one of the marks of the Christian life. As United Methodists who become members of a local church, we promise to commit ourselves to the work of the church with our prayers, presence, gifts, service and witness. I am so excited that we will hear twelve folks make that promise this month.

As I muse on words and witness and preaching and faith, I am struck by that last one, witness, because this is what preaching boils down to: The willingness to tell people what we know about our life in God and what is possible because of it. The truth that makes people nervous is that telling it is not just up to the preachers in the crowd. The good news is that ultimately, our witness doesn't have to be carefully crafted or perfectly phrased; our witness is the way we speak and live what we believe, and the ways we are willing to acknowledge the work of God in our lives and name the things of God when we see them, even out loud.

I hope that together, we create effective and magnetic ways of speaking that truth to our congregation, our community, and beyond, and if necessary, with words.

Still in One Peace,

Pastor Michelle Bogue-Trost

PASTOR PAUL'S NOTES

“A stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone.” (Psalm 118:22)
Psalm 118 is one of the final prayer songs of the Passover Feast; the author of the Psalm is referencing Israel as the “rejected cornerstone” and God made sure that they were put into a place of importance. New Testament scholars point to Jesus as the cornerstone that was rejected, and then elevated to the position of cornerstone by God.

The cornerstone is traditionally the first stone laid down by builders when they are creating a new building. It is usually one of the largest and most solid stones, carefully selected for this important role. This stone geographically orients the building and all other stones are laid down based on this one. The importance of Jesus as “the cornerstone” is that we are to look to Jesus for our orientation and guidance and to be sure that we are lined up with that.

In hiking, cairns serve a similar process. They are piles of rocks (sometimes small or sometimes large) that mark trails when traditional trail markers cannot be used. Traditional trail markers include paint marks on trees or plastic disks nailed onto trees. As well as marking the main trail, these cairns are important as they may indicate turns to side trails, location of water sources, locations of shelter, or other safety features. I have relied while in the Catskills and they pointed to interesting outcroppings and spectacular views.

1 Peter 2:5 says, “You also are living stones, being used to build up a spiritual foundation.” I see us as those cairns— marking the trail to Christ, indicating where someone can find shelter, guiding the lost, helping the hungry find food, bringing people to water and life. We have an important job as these “living stones”!

TECH MINISTRY

As soon as our A/V consultant acquires a new video switcher (currently on back order) he will install it. All other equipment is in good shape at the moment.

The Youth/Young Adult Tech Intern program is going well. Some new persons have come on board, and others have said they want to take part soon. While too young for the program at the moment, a 10-year-old(!) has expressed interest and begun to get familiar with operations in the booth.

Summer will present staffing challenges. Young people will be involved with Sky Lake camps and adults will be in and out on vacations and the like. TV Ministry welcomes inquiries from adults who would like to know more about assisting on Sundays, as well as helping with mid-week preparations and post-service editing and the like. Interested persons are invited to contact the Church Office or stop by the booth before or after services.

FAITH FORMATION NEWS

We are so blessed and happy to announce that our Sunday school Kids space program has been filling up with happy smiling children. We are so delighted to see the young and ready to learn minds. As our children's program is growing and as we move the kids down stairs every week we are in need of more adults to volunteer to help supervise. We don't want to burn out the wonderful help that we have. So our intent is to have everyone on a rotating schedule. If you have a heart to work with children, and can spare at least one Sunday a month, we have just a place for you.

Also as we speak about the need for volunteers, the Faith Formation team is starting to kick off our summer programs. We have a couple of events in June that we need volunteers for: First, the church will have a table and booth at Pride Palooza at Otsiningo Park on June 10th. That is an all-day event so even if you have an hour to spare you can help represent our church and the love we at central have for all the people of the community. Next, we have a family movie night June 21st - feel free to drop in and enjoy a free movie night with the family Food will be provided.

Lastly we will wrap up the summer with a block party in August. For this event to be a success we will need many volunteers. We need people to host cotton candy stations, games, food, registration, set up, clean up and many other places. If you are just unable to volunteer time but you want to help out, we can also use monetary donations for food or supplies needed. These events are just one way that Central tries to show God's Love to the community. I am really glad to be a part of all of it all. If you want to join in the fun please contact me at 607.427.3684 or the church at 607.754.6060. Have a safe & Blessed Summer.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!

CENTRAL SERVES

The past few months, Central Serves has continued to refine its focus: education and support for children and families in Greater Endicott. That's meant working with schools, teachers, administrative staff and more in our immediate radius. We've met with the principal of CFJ Elementary, the Community Schools Coordinator of Jennie F Snapp, and the Family Support Center Coordinator. It's been quite a winter and spring!

Plus, we've added three board members: Alicia Thoennes, Shelia Carpenter, and Denise Johnson. That means the board size has DOUBLED in the past six months! That's great news!

So when a new proposal came across our desks to support mental health for local students this past month, we were excited to explore it more. Mental health for students directly connects to our mission and focus, and is such a big issue.

Have you heard of #HashtagHOPE? It's run by our very own Karen Bixby, Central's Administrative Assistant, and features pictures of local high school students with uplifting messages about suicide prevention.

Karen came to us with a simple request: t-shirts for the next batch of students who will be featured in the social media posts. Her goal is simple: use pictures of youth that their peers will recognize, and post them with meaningful messages.

We looked at our budget (currently funded by bottle and can money, keep bringing in your cans!), and realized that we had enough to pay for the t-shirts. She's been paying for the whole #HashtagHOPE program out of pocket, and that was the least we could do! Hopefully she'll share pictures of the next round so we can post some of the pictures up at Central too!

Looking to serve at Central? Want to get involved with this important community work? Both Missions and Central Serves are always looking for mission-focused friends to serve. Contact Pastor Paul if you're interested.

Want to know more about #HashtagHOPE or make a donation of your own? Visit hashtaghope.us for more information about the program, or call the church office/stop in and ask Karen about it! Laurel O'Connor

Or you can check out stores (like Target) for some Pride paraphernalia! More information on these events will be shared in the weekly newsletter leading up to the events.

ALLOCATIONS SPRING 2023

Did you know that Central UMC gives out grants to community, national and international organizations each year? Dozens of agencies and projects (over 100, no doubt) have benefitted from the Allocations funds since its inception, and the number keeps growing!

We're doing things a little differently this year, though: applications will only be open twice per year, with deadlines on April 1 and September 1. This way, we can consolidate all the applications into two meetings per year and be the best stewards of the Allocations Fund as well as the time of our members as possible.

Want to know what was approved for funding this cycle? Here are the projects and recipients:
Charles F Johnson Elementary School
D. Jude Miller Author Visit

Binghamton University Police
Youth & Police Initiative (YPI)

Mercy House of the Southern Tier
Thinklabs One Digital Stethoscope

Innerchange East Harlem
Mobility 2023 Project

Union Endicott Booster Swim Club
Scholarships for families to attend swim lessons, for next year

Faithful Citizen, Inc
Create a video called "In From the Cold: A Tale of Two Cities," a documentary film.

Beds from Brian
Purchase 10 beds and linens in Western New York

There is one more application to be voted on; we'll report on that in the next newsletter to round out this season's applicants and awards.

Missed this cycle for an application? Know of an agency or project you'd like to share the application with? Don't worry, the application will be up on the church website again in late summer for the September 1 round of funding.

MISSIONS TEAM

Thank you so much for all the donations of supplies for our UMCOR Health Kits. I'm not sure how many we created (as I am writing this in mid-May), but I am so happy and grateful for the support!

Our next Special Sunday is June 4th – Peace With Justice Sunday. Our Social Principles call us to love our enemies, seek justice, and serve as reconcilers of conflict. We insist that the first moral duty of all nations is to work together to resolve by peaceful means every dispute that arises between or among them. Half of the funds collected on this Special Sunday remain in the Annual Conference to strengthen social justice ministries within the local conference. The other half of the donations collected fund national and international peacemaking ministries and grants.

ADULT SUNDAY SCHOOL

Thanks for a great few months of study and discussion. I have really appreciated all the dialogue and conversation! And even the difficult questions! We are taking the summer off and I will do some planning and plotting (in a good way). If you have thoughts about what to do and where to journey- let me know. I look forward to gathering back together in September. Peace+

COMMUNITY CONNECTION: IT'S UP TO YOU!

During my time as Associate Pastor, one of my favorite things was bragging about Central to community groups, and encouraging them to apply for things like the Allocations Grant. Another one of my favorite things was tabling and getting to meet community members at events, and meeting community leaders.

So when I left my post to go work at Binghamton University, I was really grateful that Pastor Michelle gave me the space to still be something we called the "Community Coordinator," who continued to do those things. However, it's time for me to take a step back - and I have full faith that Central will continue to grow into a force for good in the community!

Here's an example of how easy community outreach can be. Just three weeks ago, I got to go to the American Civic Association because there was a volunteer project there from my full-time job at Binghamton University. Finding myself at a new organization, I asked a lot of questions and learned how they're rebooting their Refugee Resettlement program and in need of both funds and material donations.

That's when I started talking about Central. I told her I'd send her a copy of the Allocations application when it opens in July (for the September deadline). I told her I'd mention it to Missions and Pastor Paul. I invited her to come see the Clothing Center, so she could get the refugees clothing (instead of trying to store all different sizes and seasons, let us help!). I bragged hard, friends, about how mission-oriented we are.

I didn't promise anything except sharing the message of what they're doing to my friends at Central, and then connected them to existing programs at the church. I didn't volunteer any of us for more work than we have. I just shared that Central loves the community and is already doing so much... and to bring them into our space to meet people like Amy in the Clothing Center.

An update: As of this article, the ACA staff did come to the church! And met Amy, and Pastor Paul, and Alicia from Missions. What an amazing moment.

Running into community leaders and sharing the story of Central's ministries and missions... That's basically what I've been doing for two years - and now it's your turn!

Wherever you go, share the story of what Central does for the community, and offer to help them access those resources! Share the Allocations application in July! Offer to introduce them to Amy, or to Karen in the office, or offer to connect them with Pastor Paul! This is how outreach and community connection work.

I'm stepping down as the official "Community Coordinator" because it's your turn. You can do this, friends. You can spread the word wherever you go about what Central does for the community. Start small - don't worry about starting with a straight-up Sunday morning church invite. Let us build rapport with people, organizations, schools and more. Let us show who we are, and let God work on peoples' hearts.

Be proud of who you are, and what you do in the community. It's God's work to build a stronger community, and everyone is going to want to be a part. There's so much abundance at Central that we don't always see, but other organizations could really benefit from. Share God's bounty, build a bigger table, all that - that's evangelism, and community connection.

Keep going, and keep growing, friends. It's your turn.

Laurel O'Connor

PASTOR MAGGIE'S NOTES

Greetings, Central Church!

As my formal MDiv internship comes to a close, I wanted to take a moment to thank this wonderful community for the love, support, and encouragement you've offered me throughout the last 8 months.

I'm excited to see the updated webpage take shape – though please bear with us as this is brought to fruition! Also, keep an eye out for some short videos on “Progressive Christianity 101” – a series of Pastor Michelle, Pastor Paul, and I discussing some of what that phrase means, the theology behind it, and resources to explore for anyone interested in learning more. These will all be rolling out over the summer.

There is still a lot that can be done to grow Central's online presence and offer hope to those seeking answers, community, and the divine. Hopefully, Central will have more interns dedicating time to this audience in the coming years to continue this work. I am confident that, if Central does have a future Drew intern, you all will rally around that person as you have me – and that makes me so glad.

And the truth is, Tyler and I have a very vested interest in this online community being successful because that is how we will be connecting with Central for the 2023-24 school year.

Tyler and I are moving to Istanbul, Turkey in the fall. He's been awarded an incredible fellowship there, and it will give me a chance to be a full-time student and complete nearly all of my MDiv requirements. This is a monumental shift for us and there are a million things to do as we prepare to go. But I'm already in conversation with Pastor Michelle and others about how we can maintain meaningful connection to Central from afar. In many ways, you can consider Tyler and I a pilot for this new, growing online community of Central.

But let me be abundantly clear: This is not goodbye. Central will always be the place Tyler and I found a true church family. We were here when we got engaged and then married. We forged bonds through Companions in Christ, Café Central, Shepherd's Supper, music, AV, Allocations, Church Council, SPRC, and other facets of this congregation. Central is where I found space to finally listen to God's call on my life to becoming a minister. It is literally impossible for us to imagine our lives today without Central. We will be here through at least mid-September – and we will be back – joining online, of course – but (hopefully) in-person as well.

We don't know what lies ahead after this fellowship or in the years to come as Tyler and I grow in our careers, but Central will always be a place we call home.

Thanks be to God for the amazing family and beloved community of Central United Methodist Church.

Grace & Mercy,

Student Pastor Maggie Wolford

A PSALM FOR THE HEART

It has been a singular joy to be able to preach a few times over the course of my internship. It's one piece of this pastoral-journey that I've come to love. I love delving into a passage of Scripture, trying to tease out something new or interesting or forgotten, and then presenting that to the congregation.

In my latest sermon, I preached on Psalm 23. At the end of that sermon, I re-read the psalm as if God is the one speaking. I was really surprised and flattered by the response to this, and so I wanted to share that here again in case it can be a help or encouragement to you. So, here we go!

Wherever you are, take a moment to breathe deep. Settle into your space. I encourage you to read these words aloud and I hope you can feel within yourself the promise God has for you – you specifically – in this psalm.

I am the Lord, your Shepherd.
I will take care of you so that you don't need a thing.
When you are tired, I will give you rest to restore
you. When you are hungry,
I will give you food to sustain you.
When you are thirsty, I will give you water to steady
you. I promised to let you catch your breath and that I will send you in the right direction – and I always keep my promises.

Even though you will walk through some difficult times and places where it seems as if there is nothing but darkness – as if even death is looming over you, do not be afraid. Remember that I am always with you, even in those times and places, and I will comfort you through to the other side.

And when you reach the other side, I have prepared a huge meal of all of your favorite things - you will feast, and all of the pain and fear will melt away from you. Your body, your mind, your spirit will be revived.

And not just today – but every day. Every day of your life, I will be there. My heart will chase after you because I love you. And that love will be your home today, tomorrow, for all of your time on this Earth and beyond.

Thanks be to God for that, my friends. Amen.

DID YOU KNOW?

CENTRAL'S CORNERSTONE TIME CAPSULE... The cornerstone laid for the original 1872 building can be seen in church ground on the corner of Liberty and Union Street. In 1927, a box with church papers was placed behind the present church cornerstone under the Gethsemane window. In 1988, Central was celebrating its 150th Anniversary, 2 men from the church crawled over a rough floor to find the time capsule. They found it. In 2013 as we celebrated 175 years, found it again. That year, the trustees hire outside help to bring out the capsule. In 2013 a more secure and bigger time capsule was bought. New items were added to the previous years' materials and it was sealed. The capsule was returned to a more accessible space behind the altar and under the Gethsemane window.
